College kids' business changes name to Canary

About to launch
brand-new website

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

A company started by a Cohasset college student has undergone an important name change - from Cbay to Canary.

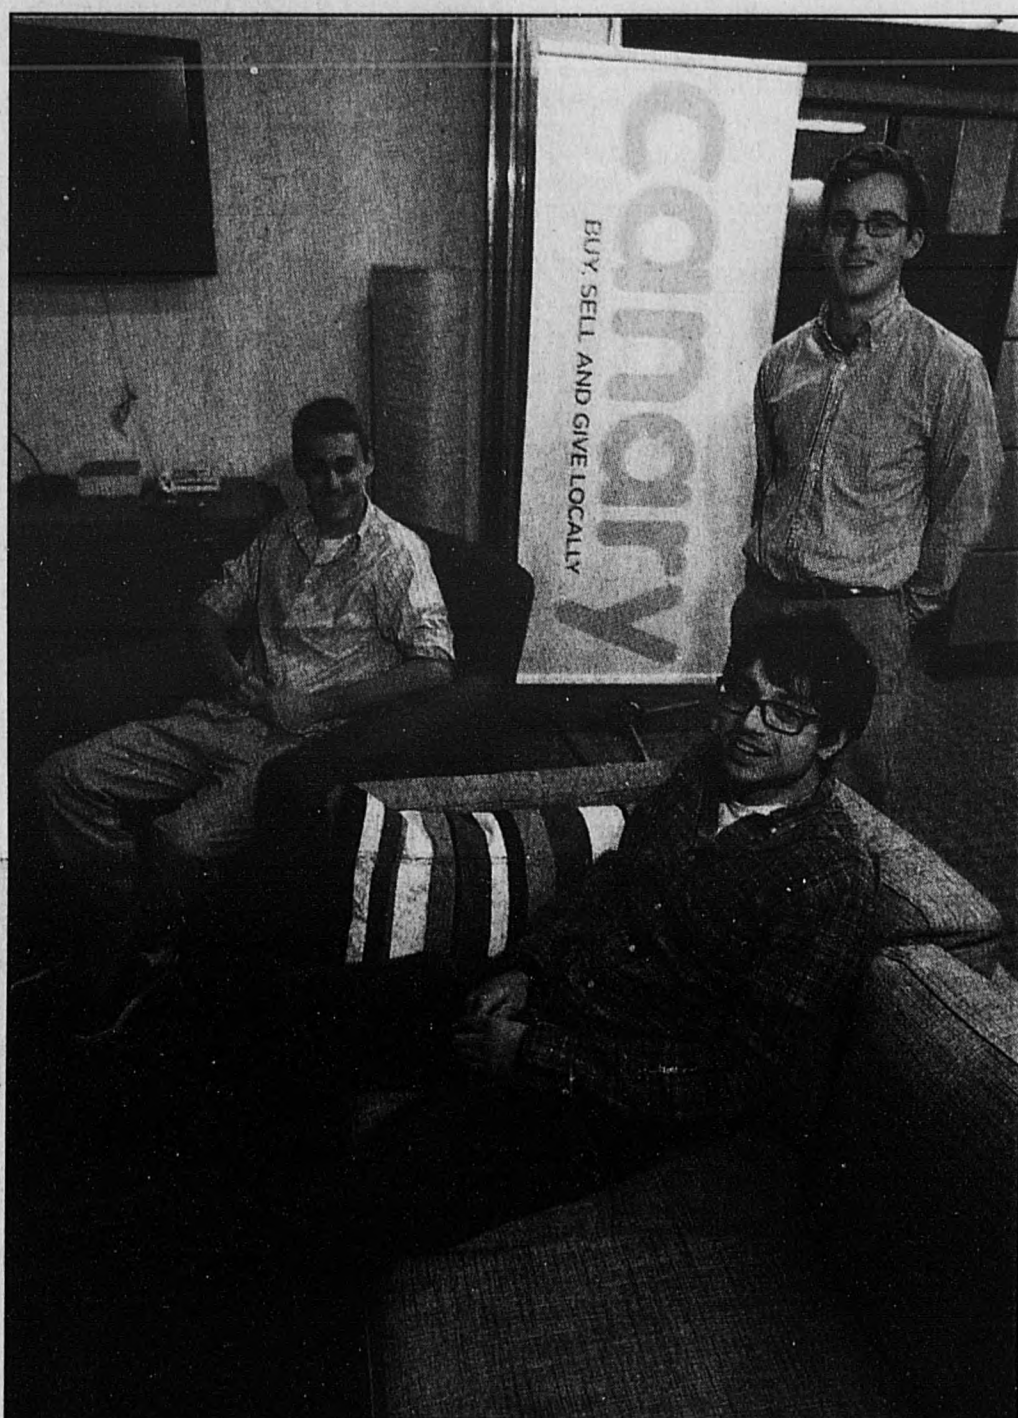

The change was made to avoid confusion with that "other" online auction site that starts with an "e." Unlike that other site, however, Canary sells goods on a client's behalf and donates a portion of sales to charity.

It's been two and a half years since Michael Filbey, 22, launched a business from his bedroom. Now, the University of Wisconsin-Madison student has decided to take his senior year off school in order to focus on his growing business.

No longer does Filbey work alone out of his bedroom. Last year, Mark Lindquist, 22, joined him as the company's Chief Marketing Officer. Now graduated, Lindquist moved from Wisconsin to Somerville, working at Canary full-time.

One of the startup company's interns was also promoted to full-time status. Mohsin Khan, 22, also relocated to work at Canary, and is now referred to as Chief Strategy Officer.

Together, the three guys rent office space in the Quincy Center for Innovation, a co-working environment.

Child abduction team earns certification

CART's commander is Det. Lt.
Gregory Lennon

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

The Metropolitan Law Enforcement Council (Metro LEC) announced this week that the organization received the Child Abduction Response Team (CART) certification, becoming only the second team in the Northeast - and the 19th team in the nation - to receive this honor.

A certification ceremony was held on Wednesday, Feb. 19, with the award presented on behalf of the Department of Justice by Phil Keith, Program Director for the AM-BER Alert Training and Technical Assistance Program.

Cohasset Detective Lieutenant Gregory Lennon said that he was honored to receive the award, adding that it's more than a "rubber stamp" certification. The CART commander explained that there are over 100 such teams in the U.S., with 20 certified through the Dept. of Justice. In order to qualify, the team had to meet over 47 different standards.

"There were literally hundreds of thousands of hours that went into this, just leading up to the actual assessment alone," said Lennon. "We went overboard to be as prepared as we could be. We're pleased to be the only

UPDATE

School board approves Junior Tri

Already approved by the Board of Selectmen, the Cohasset Junior Triathlon was also given the go-ahead by the School Committee.

The school board specifically approved the use of school facilities during the event, scheduled for Saturday, July 12 (two weeks after the "grown-up" version of the race, the annual Cohasset Triathlon).

While the inside of the buildings will not be in use, the race will go through the Deer Hill and Osgood parking lots. The race, which has swim, cycling and running components, starts in the Swim Center pool with the bike ride up Sohier Street and the top of Fair Oaks, heading back down to the Swim Center.

The race is being presented by Streamline Events; owner Bill Burnett reported this week that since opening up registration, 75 students have signed up. Participation will be capped at 400 to 500 students, he said.

Cost to participate is $35 per child; sign up can be completed at StreamlineEvents.com or CohassetJuniorTri.com.

Look for more on this issue in an upcoming edition of the Mariner.

Solar glare blamed for Route 3A accident

By Mary Ford
mford@wickedlocal.com

Solar glare

Police said the driver of a 2012 Volkswagen sedan said that solar glare made it so she could not see if the light at Route 3A and Pond Street was red or green on Wednesday (Feb. 19) around 7:48 a.m.

The 29-year-old Cohasset woman was headed south on Route 3A when she collided with a 2003 Ford pickup truck, operated by a 53-year-old Cohasset woman who was making a right from the west end of Pond Street onto Route 3A to head south toward Scituate.

Both women were transported to the hospital with non-life-threatening injuries. The driver of the VW was cited for failure to stop at a red light. Both vehicles were towed, police said.

Lug nuts loose

Police responded to a report of a disabled 1998 Volvo S70 that lost its tire in the Beechwood section of town at Carbone Lane and Church Street at around 10:30 a.m. on Monday (Feb. 17). The car was being operated by a 66-year-old Thruo woman. Express Towing, which provides services for AAA, towed her car. Police said loose lug nuts were the reason the tire came off.

Medical issue

A French Memories patron notified police around 6:25 p.m. on Monday (Feb. 17) that a woman getting into her car in the parking lot of the gas station across the street was unsteady on her feet. Police arrived and called the fire department to evaluate the 57-year-old Cohasset resident. As it turned out she had had a sudden reaction to some medication. She had parked at the gas station while she ran an errand at Tedeschi's. A police cruiser went to her home and picked up her husband who took her home.

Suspicious activity

A 58-year-old Cushing Road resident went to the station on Tuesday (Feb. 18) to report suspicious activity including someone knocking on her door at all hours and tampering with her cable-TV connection. Police took a report and have put on extra patrols in her neighborhood.

Starbuck's MVA

A 50-year-old Scituate woman called police on Wednesday (Feb. 19) around 7:23 p.m. after the driver's door to her 2010 Volkswagen sedan was hit in the parking lot at Starbucks. She had opened the driver's side door but was standing on the passenger side of her car when a white, four-door sedan drove through the parking spaces and hit the door to her car. She did not see the driver and reported the white sedan continued through the parking lot and onto Route 3A toward Scituate. Cohasset police notified Scituate police to be on the lookout. The door to the victim's car was damaged in the accident, police said.

Single-car MVA

Police responded to a single-car accident at 12:30 a.m. on Thursday (Feb. 20) involving a 2014 Toyota Camry that slid on black ice in the 300 block of Beechwood Street (going toward the ballpark) and hit a small tree off the road. The driver, who is a 64-year-old Norwell man, said he was traveling about 35 m.p.h. when he hit the black ice. The front of the car was damaged and had to be towed. He was not cited in the accident, police said.

Check cashed

A 69-year-old Scituate grandmother went to the police station on Thursday morning (Feb. 20) to report that Stop & Shop recently informed her that they had cashed a check of hers for $91.26 in November on an account that had been closed. The woman told police she had closed the account 13 months ago and surmised that the boyfriend of her granddaughter may have taken a check from her old checkbook. Police are working with loss prevention at Stop & Shop to see if they call pull surveillance tapes from November to see who cashed the check.

Stolen iPhone

A 53-year-old Cohasset man went to the police station around 5:50 p.m. on Thursday (Feb. 20) to report that his Apple iPhone 4 had been stolen from a local establishment. Police said his son was at the location and had left the iPhone unattended for several minutes - when they boy returned to retrieve it, it was gone.

Un-neighborly

Police spoke with two neighbors in the Harborview Apartments off Elm Street who agreed to respect one another's space until management can get involved in an ongoing dispute. One of the neighbors had complained to police last week that the other neighbor was being overly loud by banging on the floor and dropping weights. He also allegedly gave the complainer dirty looks.

Stolen MV

Cohasset police are summoning the 28-year-old son of a 63-year-old Cohasset woman to court on charges of using a motor vehicle without authority and driving with a suspended license. The man's mother called police on Sunday (Feb. 23) at around 11:56 p.m. to report that her son had taken her 2011 Toyota Camry without permission. She told police that her son is a drug addict. Police reached the son on his cell phone who explained he had taken the car in order to go to a rehab facility and he left the car in the parking lot of the Nantasket Junction train station. An officer brought the woman to the parking area where she picked up her car.

Dispute

Police responded to a report of a couple having a verbal argument at 2:45 p.m. on Sunday (Feb. 23) on Jerusalem Road. The concerned caller reported the woman was outside a black Cadillac Escalade and was having a loud verbal exchange with the man driving the vehicle.

The woman ended up getting into the Escalade and driving off with him. Police contacted Hull police who located the couple and determined that the woman was safe.

Craig's List

A 26-year-old Hull man reported to Cohasset police on Sunday that while he was attempting to purchase Celtics tickets on Craig's List he realized the person selling the tickets was able to gain access into his computer through a virtual server. He did not purchase the tickets but wanted to make a police report about the incident.

Alleged drunken driver leads police on three-town pursuit

By Mary Ford and Ruth Thompson
mford@wickedlocal.com

A 55-year-old Hingham woman is facing 22 charges from three police departments after leading police on a three-town pursuit on Friday night (Feb. 21).

The pursuit started in Scituate, continued down Route 3A in Scituate, Cohasset and Hingham and ended on Fottler Road in Hingham.

Hingham police deployed spike strips near the Hingham rotary in an effort to stop the 2010 Subaru Impreza that Kimberly S. Davis of 3807 Tucker's Lane was driving.

According to Scituate Police Chief Michael Stewart, Scituate Officer Taylor Billings was on routine patrol in the area of the Route 3A rotary near the Driftway around 10:30 p.m. when he noticed Davis' vehicle pulled over to the side of the road with its hazard lights on.

"He pulled up behind the vehicle, put the blue lights on, and got out to see whether she was all right," Stewart said.

Billings was standing next to the vehicle when Davis put the car in drive and took off, Stewart said. "He had to jump out of the way."

Davis ended up going over a curb, bounced over a travel lane and sped off along Route 3A north.

"Officer Billings radioed ahead before he could catch up to the vehicle," Stewart said.

There were two vehicles stopped at the traffic lights at the intersection of Route 3A and First Parish Road as Davis approached. As the light turned green, Stewart said Davis passed both vehicles and continued along Route 3A.

Stewart said her estimated speed was 100 mph in a posted 50 mph zone.

Police said Davis ran a red light at 3A and Pond Street in Cohasset and red lights at four intersections in Hingham.

Police said Davis ran a red light at 3A and Pond Street in Cohasset and red lights at four intersections in Hingham.

Cohasset police informed Hingham about being unable to stop the Subaru as it was traveling along Chief Justice Cushing Highway. A Hingham officer positioned himself on Route 3A near the Cohasset line while two others waited near the Rotary.

Police said the Subaru ran two more red lights before reaching the Rotary where Hingham police deployed the spike strips and stopped southbound traffic. The Subaru hit the strips with its left front tire but continued on its rim along Route 3A, running the lights at Stars and Downer Avenue.

Police said after Davis turned left onto Fottler Road, they were able to box her in where she was placed in custody. Scituate Officer Billings placed Davis under arrest and Scituate towed her car in which police found an open, two-thirds full bottle of wine.

Davis is facing seven charges issued by Scituate police: operating under the influence (liquor), negligent operation of a motor vehicle, failure to stop for police, speeding, marked lanes violation, possession of an open container of alcohol in motor vehicle, and assault with a dangerous weapon.

Hingham has charged Davis with failure to stop for police, driving to endanger, driving with an open container of alcohol, speeding, four red-light violations and failure to drive in marked lanes. She was also charged with impeding operation because she was wearing headphones and failure to lower her high beams.

Cohasset Police have summonsed Davis for motor vehicle crimes that occurred in Cohasset. She will be charged with driving to endanger, speeding, red light violation (Route 3A and Pond Street), and failing to stop for a police officer. She will be arraigned in Quincy District Court because the Cohasset offenses occurred in Norfolk County.

"I'm extremely pleased that the pursuit was conducted well within the guidelines of our new high speed pursuit policy, that nobody was injured, and that no property or cruisers were damaged," Cohasset Acting Chief William Quigley said.

"These are extremely stressful occurrences and it's imperative that police supervisors closely monitor the pursuit and call it off if it gets too dangerous. In this case, I had a senior officer in charge of the shift and a Lieutenant Detective on the air supervising."

"Pursuant to our new high speed pursuit policy, which was developed last summer, we have already had our mandated after-actions meeting and I plan on fine-tuning a couple of regional communications snafus that were flagged in after-actions," Quigley said.

certified CART in New England."

Cohasset's Acting Police Chief William Quigley praised Lennon and CART for a job well done.

Lennon, said Quigley, "put hundreds of hours of his own time into this very special achievement. I hope that we never need to deploy his team, but if we do, Greg's hard work, dedication, and talent, will serve the Metro-LEC communities well and dramatically improve the chances for a positive outcome."

Each CART member must undergo a minimum 40-hour training class on how missing and abducted child investigations are conducted. The team also staged a mock abduction in July, which involved over 100 police officers from various Metro LEC divisions, including motorcycle units, search and rescue and SWAT.

Becoming certified means that the team "is in a position to respond very robustly to a [child abduction] situation with best practices that we've worked on and refined," said Lennon.

In the event that a child goes missing, CART is ready to "respond at a moment's notice with a force of hundreds of officers and search and rescue personnel to investigate the circumstances and hopefully have a positive resolution to the incident," Lennon said.

Lennon has been part of Metro LEC's CART since its inception in 2006, and was asked to serve as commander after William Brooks of Wellesley became police chief in Norwood.

"We went overboard to be as prepared as we could be. We're pleased to be the only certified CART in New England."

Det. Lt. Gregory Lennon

"I was honored to be asked to be the commander of the team after Chief Brooks stepped down," said Lennon. "As CART commander, I was in charge of facilitating the entire assessment process, making sure that all the standards we had were in compliance with the Department of Justice's standards," he explained.

Lennon said that it's good for towns to be part of the Metro LEC community.

"People that live in Metro LEC communities can rest assured [if a child goes missing], we will be responding with cutting edge techniques and procedures that are most likely to lead to the safe recovery of a child," said

Lennon.

Having the CART commander in town isn't a bad thing, either.

"The residents of Cohasset benefit," said Lennon, "because I'm a detective lieutenant here, there's the added benefit of the knowledge I have" as CART commander.

The CART unit consists entirely of detectives and has the support and cooperation of the FBI, Secret Service and Homeland Security as a "joint task force," said Lennon. "We have a very nice working relationship with them."

Lennon feels that residents can take comfort in knowing that "even though the Cohasset police department is small, the members are playing extremely significant roles in multi-jurisdictional, high-profile teams," which "demonstrates that they have a very competent and professional police department here."

Cohasset's Acting Police also deserves credit, the detective lieutenant said.

"None of this would be possible without the support of the chief," said Lennon. "Bill has certainly given me the time I need to get the job done... His attitude is not 'let someone else worry about it.' It benefits us in the long run."

Metro LEC is made up of 47 different cities and towns, from Plymouth to Seekonk, to Milford and Natick - and, of course, Cohasset.

About the Metro LEC and CART:

The Metropolitan Law Enforcement Council (Metro LEC) is a consortium of personnel from Mass. cities, towns and sheriff departments, with the collective goal of sharing resources among member agencies so that the best possible services can be provided to their communities during incidents that necessitate an increased response in a very short amount of time. The abduction of a child falls right under those parameters. The various factions of the organization (SWAT, CART, Mobile Ops, Public Information, Investigative Service Unit) train rigorously, on a regular basis, so that when needed, response can be expedited and assistance rendered immediately.

During this exercise, Metro LEC coordinated other resources to assist including the FBI, State Police, Team ADAM and the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office. Having a certified CART (Child Abduction Response Team) fortifies the ability of the Metro LEC organization to bring a successful resolution to cases involving missing or abducted children.

Trimesters at Middle School

The Cohasset Middle School schedule will change from semesters to trimesters, starting in September 2014.

The School Committee voted unanimously to approve switching up the schedule. According to Principal Carolyn Connolly, "many top-performing districts" utilize a trimester schedule for middle grades.

"We see the philosophical value in it," said Connolly.

Superintendent Barbara Cataldo noted that Cohasset is the first district she has worked in "that didn't have trimesters for middle school." Having an additional 10 days per marking period is "an advantage" for students, said Cataldo.

School committee member Dr. Helene Lieb said that as a psychologist, "I support [trimesters] developmentally. It makes sense to me."

AUTHOR TALKS

Prize-winning historian to talk about 'The Mortal Sea'

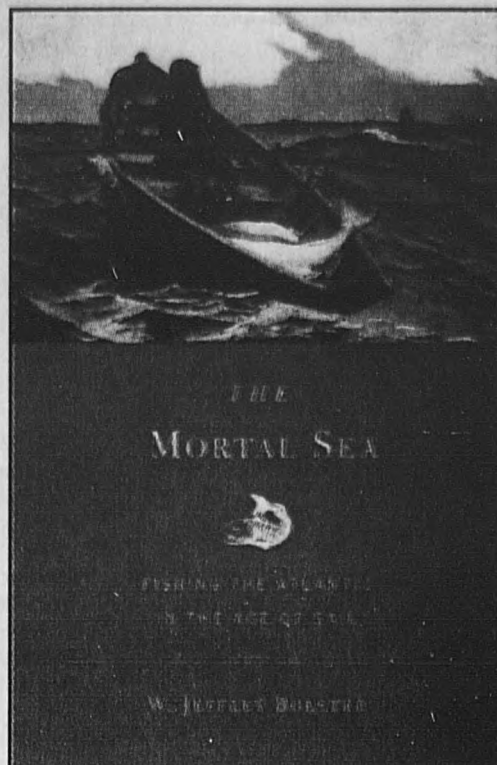

Join neighbors and seafaring friends for Sunday Author Talks at the Paul Pratt Memorial Library, on March 2, at 4 p.m. Jeffrey Bolster will discuss his prize-winning book, "The Mortal Sea: Fishing the Atlantic in the Age of Sail," a history of the human impact on one of the largest and richest ecosystems in the world — the North Atlantic Ocean, from Cape Cod to Newfoundland.

Bolster will relate stories of how and why we have nearly lost the entire population of cod, menhaden, halibut, mackerel, striped bass, among many others. With objective analysis of scientific data, abundant documentation from mariners' journals, and records of laws passed and revoked according to the political whim of the times, he will illumine what fishermen, policymakers, and ecologists have known for 500 years—the sea is mortal.

Admission is free and all are invited to stay for wine and cheese and further conversation with the author. Buttonwood Books will have Professor Bolster's book available for purchase and signing.

For further information, visit cohassetlibrary.org.

Volunteer for Relay For Life

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life is seeking volunteers on the South Shore — walkers, cancer survivors, caregivers, community leaders, anyone wanting to make a difference — to organize and recruit fundraising teams, garner community support, coordinate logistics, seek refreshments and prizes, plan entertainment and lend a hand to ensure the success of the 2014 event. Relay For Life unites communities to finish the fight against cancer.

Relay For Life is currently in the process of planning the 2014 Relay For Life event and is in need of planning committee members and volunteers. There are a variety of ways to help out, from organizing the event, to starting a team with family and friends, to becoming a corporate sponsor. Contact the local American Cancer Society representative, Rebecca Ybarra, for more information at Rebecca.Ybarra@cancer.org or call 508-897-4343.

Relay For Life events take place overnight as individuals and teams camp out at an athletic track, park or fairground, with the goal of keeping at least one team member on the track or pathway at all times. Teams do most of their fundraising prior to the event, but some teams also hold creative fundraisers at their campsites at the event. Relay For Life brings together friends, families, businesses, hospitals, schools, faith-based groups — people from all walks of life — all aimed at celebrating the lives of those who have had cancer, remembering those lost, and fighting back against the disease.

The 18th annual Relay For Life of Cohasset/Hingham/Hull/Scituate will take place this year at Cohasset High School, tentatively on Saturday, June 21 through Sunday, June 22. Those who would like to join the Relay For Life of Cohasset/Hingham/Hull/Scituate as a volunteer or team participant can call the American Cancer Society at 508-897-4343, or visit RelayForLife.org/CohassetMA.

LIFE AT CHS

Debate, sports teams have a super week!

MATTHEW MACCORMACK

Fresh off a much-appreciated and highly restorative February break, the CHS population has crawled out of its winter den and returned to its natural school habitat.

For those of you who shared a February break with we students, I hope you enjoyed it. And to those who didn't have the luxury of said break, and to whom I am unintentionally rubbing it in, I apologize.

Nonetheless, with the twenty-eight day marvel that is February in the bag, CHS's seniors now have less than three months of school remaining! It truly is nothing short of incredible how fast the time goes, and as the realization that our proverbial hourglass is running on empty sinks in, the wish to slow down our last chunk of school is beginning to arise.

But who has time to slow down? CHS is back in full force after vacation, with several events underway. Preparations for the Mr. Skipper pageant are underway, with contestants dropping off their respective tuxedo order forms during the break, and several of the hopefuls already working on their talents. It should be a fantastic night on March 14th, and I will come with more details as they arrive.

This week, a few CHS seniors had the opportunity to make a greater impact in the Cohasset school district. As part of the Deer Hill's "Read-A-Thon", a dozen of Cohasset's finest student ambassadors took an hour out of their schooldays to saunter into a few classrooms and read to Deer Hill's eager little ears. I can say that it was certainly a great experience for all parties involved, and members of the PSO were thrilled with the event.

Speaking of thrills, we are now in one of the most exciting seasons in the whole year; that's right, its tourney time. Speaking of thrills, we are now in one of the most exciting seasons in the whole year; that's right, its tourney time.

The CHS Debate Team recently attended the league meet, with the First Varsity Negative Team of seniors Kathryn Dunn and Jack Stanganelli finishing 6th in the league with a record of 8-1, and the First Varsity Affirmative Team of seniors Tim Cavanaro and Alexandros "Beast Mode" Deligiannidis earning themselves an eighth place finish with their tally of 6-3. The CHS Girls' Hockey squad pulled off a first round W against league rival King Phillip by a score of 5-3. Meanwhile, the #2 seed Boys' Bball team had their first tourney game on Thursday, with the #4 seeded Boys' Hockey squad opening up this evening against Dartmouth at Rockland Arena. On top of that, the CHS Wrestling team had 9 grapplers qualify for the states meet, with junior Matt Froio moving on to the All-States meet this weekend.

I will let you read more about CHS athletics in the sports section of the paper, but I will say just one detail more. CSPN, aka the Cohasset Sports Network, came out with its first episode of the second season this Thursday. With Cole Morrison, Dan Toomey, some scrub named Matthew MacCormack and our fantastic production crew of Bryce Avila, Christian Cunnie, and Reed Westcott, we put out a can't-miss 35-minute episode that features some awesome stories about CHS sports. Be sure to take a look at this student-run project on the 143tv channel (shout-out to program director Don Roine), or on our YouTube page.

That is all the material I have for you friends. Have a splendid weekend, and remember, keep it classy Cohasset.

Matthew MacCormack is a senior at Cohasset High School and a regular contributor to the Cohasset Mariner.

PAULA J. FATERSIK

When life throws you a curve, you have to be prepared to get up, regroup and make things better again. Well, this is a predicament that homeless, abandoned or neglected animals have to figure out on their own. The lucky ones are rescued and come to loving shelters like HSAR and our Rusty is one lucky and special boy. Just look at that handsome and engaging face.

Friendly? Absolutely. Loving? You bet. This three-year-old buff and white young guy has intent green eyes and fabulous markings with a splash of a Pinto pony white on his back. Rusty had to have been living a good life at one time and we now want him to have that security back...forever.

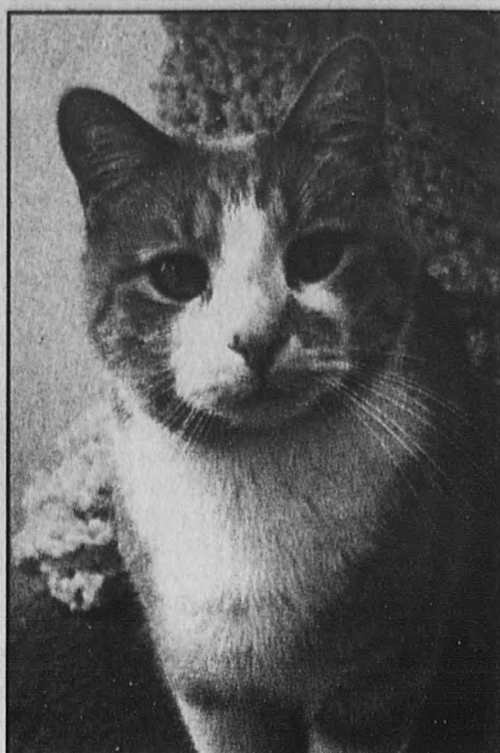

Rusty is mellow, sweet, loves giving and receiving affection and is one of those perfect packages when it comes to cats. When you walk into the room, he will be looking right at you and as soon as he knows you are interested, the showing off begins. Very quickly, he will be up and insisting on neck rubs and petting and then here come the purrs! Seriously, you can hear his purr from across the room.

If you are looking for a true companion and best buddy, Rusty may be your match. He will enjoy spending time relaxing, playing and chasing toys and knowing that he loved. And that love will come right back to you as he is just a total love bug. Come in and see this deserving and awesome boy soon!

CANARY

After spending over two years as Cbay, it was time for a brand and identity change.

"Ebay and Cbay were too close," Lindquist said during a visit to the Canary office. "Ebay never reached out to us, but we wanted to be preemptive."

The guys spent several months brainstorming, trying out new names on a white board before they all settled on Canary, partially because it also started with a "c," and mostly because they liked the sound of it.

Polling their fellow entrepreneurs in Quincy, Canary was the name that came out on top.

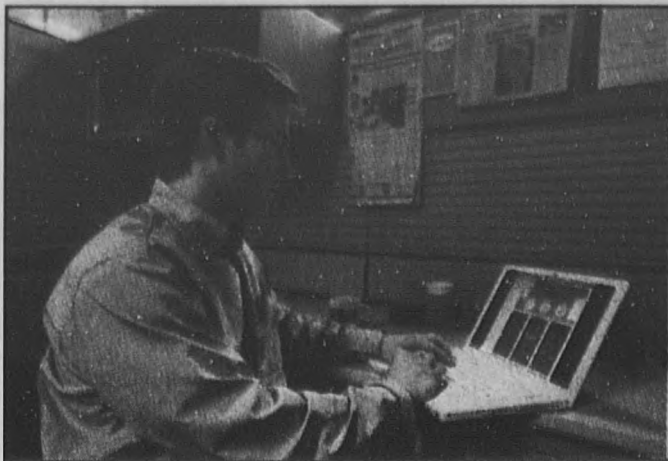

"There is also some cool symbolism behind Canary we discovered," said Filbey. "In literature, it means joy and selflessness."

In addition to an all-new name and logo, Canary is also poised to launch a brand-new website, set to launch early next week (see sidebar).

So how does Canary work? The guys describe it as a new way to sell locally, providing an online marketplace to buy and sell items. Sellers have the potential to make more money with Canary than by selling to a consignment shop.

"There's no risk in trying to sell with us," said Filbey. Unlike consigning, "there's no charge if it doesn't sell."

If you have stuff to sell that's worth over $150, but lack the time or know-how to sell it, Canary can take it off your hands and do the legwork for you. Simply create an account on Canary's website, and sell and buy directly from the online storefront. A handy mobile app is also in the works, enabling clients to snap photos and list items from their iPhones.

Cohasset's Mike Filbey works on his computer in their cubicle at a shared office space with other startups in Quincy.

Once you register an item to sell, Canary researches the item's value and provides price recommendations, then lists it on its website. Once a credible buyer is found, Canary sets up a time for the buyer to pick the item up. The buyer pays online with a credit card and is responsible for picking up the item, or having a moving service do so.

Once a purchase is confirmed, Canary mails the seller a check for 60 percent of the sale.

Canary's profit breakdown is 60-28-12: the client takes home 60 percent of the sale, while the remaining 40 percent is divided between Canary and one of five partnering charities (Neighbor Brigade, Wellspring, the Foundation for Children with Special Needs, the Jett Foundation, and the American Red Cross of Massachusetts).

Canary only takes 40 percent of the first $2500, so for items that sell for more, the client earns 100 percent of the profit.

This year, Canary marked a milestone - reaching $110,000 in sales, with $18,000 donated to charity.

The next big goal? Continuing to grow the business by expanding beyond the South Shore to other parts of the state.

The guys hope to take Canary to "an area where we have no traction at all, to prove we can get customers cost-effectively and expand efficiently," said Lindquist. Beyond that, the guys hope to start operating on a national scale.

For now, Canary has partnered with some local companies, including Pony Express, a moving company based in Jamaica Plain.

Filbey explained that customers often ask if Canary does pick-up and delivery for items. Those who use Pony Express for Canary purchases save 15 percent on the move.

Another potential partnership in the works could be with large furniture retailers. Khan said that he did a little undercover work, visiting furniture chains and asking about what to do with old furniture sets once a new set is purchased.

"All the places said to junk it," said Khan. "It can cost $100 to have someone throw it away for you. This is a big opportunity for us."

Rather than throw furniture away, Canary would help sell it.

"It makes complete sense for a person to get some money and see it go to a good home rather than a landfill," said Filbey.

As they seek to expand the business, the young men behind Canary are working - and playing - hard.

Lindquist estimates that they each put in around 65 hours per week in the office, if not more.

"We work nine to seven, unofficially," said Khan.

That sometimes includes Saturdays and Sundays, although on the weekends, they tend to work half-days.

"We work hard," said Filbey. "You have to."

Despite the long hours, Lindquist insisted, "I don't feel burnt out at all."

Having a creative office space - with break rooms featuring video games, foosball and ping-pong tables - certainly helps. In case the workday gets too intense, the guys have found ways to blow off steam.

"Whenever we get tired, we play ping-pong," said Khan.

Dormitzer newest historical commissioner

Jackie Dormitzer, Atlantic Avenue, is the newest appointed member of the Cohasset Historical Commission. Dormitzer is the author of five historical books on Cohasset. She said in an email to the Board of Selectmen that she is interested in contributing to the commission's projects.

Selectman Martha

Gjesteby said she attended the commission's most recent meeting and noted that Dormitzer has gotten involved with the group's planning for the upcoming 400th anniversary celebration of Captain John Smith landing in Cohasset.

Gjesteby said of Dormitzer, "I think she'd be excellent on the historic commission; I'm wondering why she never was."

The selectmen appointed Dormitzer unanimously. The board also voted unanimously to reappoint Terese D'Urso to the Registrar of Voters through June 2016. D'Urso's term expired in June 2013; she was first appointed in Nov. 2011.

ON THE JOB

Dominique of Quincy Career Center featured

The stock market in the past year has soared, but for many the job market is not performing nearly as well. Congress is still locked in a debate about extending unemployment benefits and the commonwealth is struggling with how to best serve the newly unemployed and the long-term unemployed. Rich Dominique, of the Quincy Career Center, will lead a workshop at "On the Job," on Monday, March 3, from 8:30 to 10 a.m. on what to expect from government in this questionable environment and how to make use of the services that are available right now. His original session on Jan. 13, had to be canceled due to illness.

Dominique knows the job market from both the inside and the outside. After working in state government for many years he was laid off and went through 99 weeks of unemployment. He finally took a job managing a Dunkin' Donuts. Today he is back working for the Commonwealth and is helping other job seekers through the Quincy Career Center.

He also facilitates a job club that meets regular. In his role he helps coordinate technology training, set up guest speakers and help member's transition to Mass Health, apply for fuel assistance and run an informal network of support for those out of work. "Rich knows the job market and the frustrations of trying to find work in this difficult market. And he really has been able to help so many folks during this time because of both street savvy and insight into working with so many programs," says Linda Powers, one of the facilitators of "On the Job." "On the Job" is held every Monday morning in the Ruth Curry Parlor at New North Church, 1 Lincoln St., in Hingham. Marie Harris, Linda Powers and Bill Turpie, pastor of New North Church, lead the group. The program is free and open to anyone looking to network and improve their job search skills as they seek their next position.

Police accreditation

Thankfully police pursuits through Cohasset are relatively rare. However, when they do occur – as was the case that resulted in a Scituate arrest for drunken driving in Hingham on Friday night – Cohasset police have up-to-date policies in place to try and ensure the safety of all involved.

Scituate police estimate the Hingham woman, who is facing a host of criminal charges from three police departments, was traveling at speeds up to 100 mph along Route 3A as she sped from that town through Cohasset and into Hingham. (See story, page 3).

Acting Police Chief William Quigley said he was extremely pleased the pursuit in Cohasset was conducted within the guidelines of the police department's new high-speed pursuit policy and that no one was injured and that no property or cruisers were damaged.

He explained that pursuant to that policy the CPD held an "after-actions" meeting going through what had occurred step-by-step, including listening to radio transmission tapes, reviewing written reports and essentially having a round-table discussion to see what was handled well and what could be improved upon.

What many readers may not know is the CPD is currently undergoing a voluntary, self-initiated accreditation program by the Massachusetts Police Accreditation Commission to improve the delivery of public safety services. The pursuit policy is just one of many policies, standards and procedures under review.

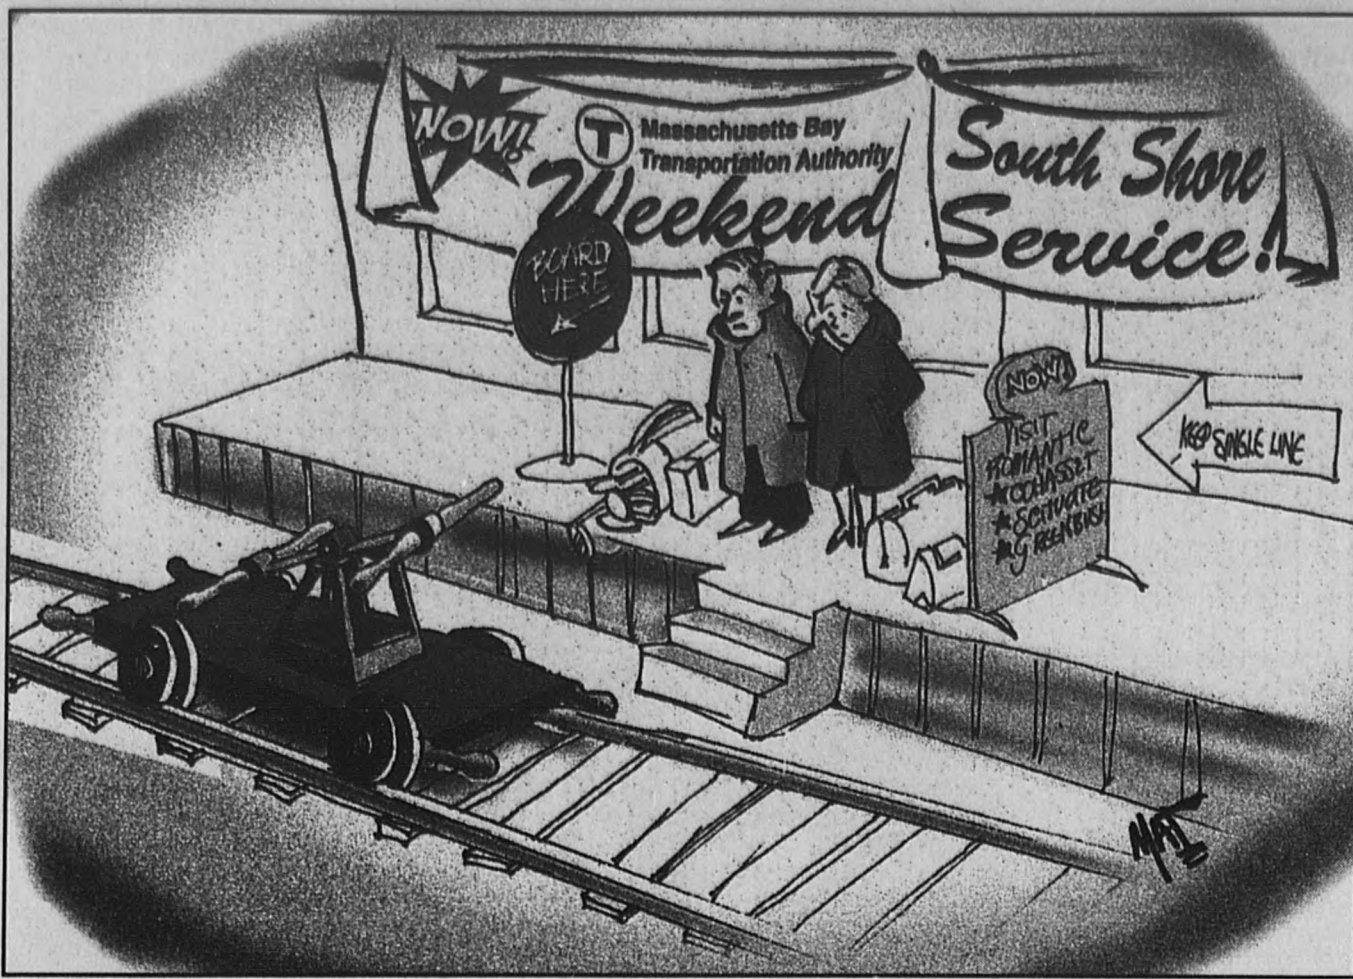

What makes Cohasset stand out is that currently it is just one of 21 police departments in the state to have reached the certification phase which is part of the accreditation process. There are 151 standards in the certification program all of which are all mandatory. Accreditation consists of 377 standards: 254 are mandatory and 123 are optional.

These standards include but are not limited to compliance in the following areas: Use of Force, Authority and Jurisdiction, Recruitment, Selection and Promotion of Personnel, Training, Discipline and Internal Affairs, Patrol and Criminal Investigations, Victim / Witness Assistance, Traffic Operations, Prisoner Transportation and Holding Facilities, Records and Communications, Collection and Preservation of Evidence and Property and Evidence Control. Quigley explained that a standard could be as simple as what goes into the trunk of a police car (ballistic helmet, medical bag, fire extinguisher) to rewriting every standard operating procedure in the department making sure they are all up to date.

The CPD will go through a mock accreditation in March and then apply for full accreditation. Once accredited, the CPD will be the only police department on the South Shore – apart from Duxbury – that is accredited, Quigley said.

Not only will accreditation give the CPD a better insurance rate that translates into a financial savings for the town – but also the people of Cohasset will be better served.

"Many police departments are operating with outdated policy and procedures not consistent with current case law or newly developed tactics," Quigley said.

South Shore Living celebrates women

Two Cohasset women are being honored by South Shore Living Magazine this month.

South Shore Living's March 2014 issue is dedicated to recognizing influential women on the South Shore. The magazine held a Celebrate Women launch party at the Scituate River Club on Wednesday, Feb. 26.

Two Cohasset women are among the honorees: Alice Cook, former Olympic figure skater, sports reporter, and president and founder of She's Game Sports, and Deborah Howard, former reporter, lawyer and PR professional, and president of the non-profit Companion Animal Protection Society (CAPS).

NATURE (HUMAN AND OTHERWISE)

Red-winged blackbird heralds spring

KEZIA BACON

Which bird do you associate with the arrival of spring?

The robin, right? It turns out that the appearance of a robin here on the South Shore is not an indication that spring is on its way. However spying a red-winged blackbird at your feeder: now that's a different story.

Usually in early March, male red-winged blackbirds return to their breeding grounds, to prepare for the arrival of the females. Their aim is stake out, and guard, the best territory, so as to attract the most appealing mate.

My father likes to tell a story about a city-dwelling friend, who after hearing my dad's excitement about the arrival of red-winged blackbirds on our deck, inquired "What do they look like?"

"Well," said my dad, stating the obvious, "They are black birds, and they have a patch of red on their wings."

So yes, the name of the red-winged blackbird is indeed an apt descriptor. It is a medium-sized bird, just under two ounces in weight, and about 8.75 inches in length, with a 13-inch wingspan. Males are glossy black in color, with red and yellow badges, or "epaulettes," on their shoulders, which they can display or conceal as needed. Females are less bold in color, usually a streaked dark brown, often with white above the eyes.

In spring, they are hard to miss — especially the males, who create quite a racket in their quest to be noticed by potential mates. Males will perch in high places and sing "Oak-a-ree!" or "Conk-la-ree!" all day long. Females are more apt to gather food and tend to the nest.

I live a stone's throw from the Green Harbor River. In my back yard, a freshwater marsh divides the upland from a wide, pond-like section of the watercourse. This is prime habitat for red-winged blackbirds, which during the breeding season, favor marshes (both salt and fresh), rivers and streams, damp scrubby roadsides, and even the manmade ponds on golf courses. In winter, they might choose a drier habitat, such as an agricultural field, a wild meadow, or a grassy pasture.

So when they arrive here in spring, after wintering in warmer climes, they set about breeding and nesting. First the males each establish a territory. Next, when the females arrive, the males perch in prominent places, show off their colorful wing patches, and sing. Mate selection is undertaken by the females, but it's not exclusive. A male may have up to fifteen different female mates at one time, and in a given season, most male red-winged blackbirds have at least two females nesting in their territory. Males actively defend their dominion. They will chase other birds away, fend off nest predators, and if they feel threatened, even harass large mammals including humans.

The females each select a site on which to build a nest. They use mud, grass and decayed vegetation to create a small cup, which is seated, low among densely-vegetated marsh grass, shrubs or trees. Females typically lay 3-6 eggs, which are pale blue-green or gray in color. After about 12 days of incubation, the fledglings hatch and the mother stays close-by for five weeks to feed them.

The diet of the red-winged blackbird varies. During the breeding season it is rich in protein, and includes insects like beetles, moths, grasshoppers, caterpillars and grubs. At other times of year, seeds and grains are staples.

The range of the red-winged blackbird spans the entire continental United States, most of Canada, and as far south as El Salvador, but the more highly populated areas are the Northeast, Midwest and the western US. Outside of nesting season, they congregate in extremely large flocks (think: millions), often with other types of blackbirds or starlings. They migrate with the seasons, concentrating where food and water are abundant.

As March approaches, the return of the red-winged blackbirds is nigh. Keep an eye out for brightly-colored males, who will bring some light and warmth to these dark, cold, dreary days, not only in a visual sense, but in a spiritual one as well. These shiny black birds with their patches of red and/or yellow on the shoulder are a sure sign of spring!

GROWING ON THE FARM

Can't wait to be on the road again

JON BELBER

With ice still underfoot and along the road's edge, sitting down in a car, paying for relatively inexpensive gasoline to head out to the farm still seems like a practical decision.

I can fit my bag of seed catalogues, some buckets of compost scraps, maybe some soil and trays for early seeding at a school, as well as some collected plates from the "take it or leave it" section at the transfer station that could be cleaned up for a future Farm to Table dinner at the farm.

Traveling by automobile during the day and the evening makes a lot of sense, and I would be just like the many on the South Shore who commute, transport and travel by car, often warm and hopefully not idling too long, as turning it off actually better suits the environment and the changing climate.

A modern day convenience indeed, as is a little rectangle that buzzes and flutters to let everyone know where I am or where I am going. The former is almost second-nature and a convenience I have come to take for granted. The latter is expensive, interruptive and besides, everyone has one.

In major metropolitan cities, the bike share programs have remained in operation, despite the ongoing blizzards, polar vortexes and narrow, black-iced roadways. This decision is a tribute to the hardy souls who may not have access to or afford a car and wish to make a one less car difference for that same environment we all inhabit.

Having been hit in autumn by a car while on bike and then waiting to seek repairs to the bike, I have not been back in the saddle much since. But I need to. I am able and fortunate enough to have the wherewithal to take the "Share the Road" signs to heart. I also have lights for the early setting sun. I do wonder if there will ever be enough riders to really make the drivers pause.

Could enough people in towns south of Boston and across the country (see Madison, WI) really envision separated, designated bike lanes, and not just an icon on the road at a stoplight? Could drivers be persuaded to put down their phones and devices so as to notice the folks who seek fresh air by walking the sidewalk streets? Does "Share the Road" really mean to stare down those not in cars on the road?

It is hard to transport families by bicycle. It is tricky to accommodate enough paniers to haul groceries. A quart of raw milk, a loaf of multigrain bread and a stick of organic butter do barely a bike basket hold.

It is tricky to walk the icy, roughly plowed sidewalks to the post office for someone of any age. But the effort has to begin somewhere for change and pedestrian/pedal awareness.

I am grateful to have access to a car but determined to ride the bike again. And when I am driving and see folks walking toward me on the road, I will be reminded that attention to all who walk, run and use the road must be paid.

And I will fashion a double strapped backpack on the recently repaired two wheels and a frame to cart my seeds to the greenhouse at the farm or the new one at Hingham High and South River schools for spring plants, even though the roads are still slick and slushy.

It won't be too hard, just like riding a bike. It is never too late to learn.

PUSHING THE EDGE

Is it the message or the messenger?

GLENN MANGURIAN

Is this question like the "chicken and the egg" dilemma? Which comes first?

Some of you may be old enough to remember the philosopher, Marshal McLuhan. In the 1960s he wrote a bestselling book, "The Medium is the Message: An Inventory of Effects." His main point was that the medium is part of the content of the message thereby influencing how the message is perceived.

In political discourse, the public vacillates between the importance of a candidate's clarity and compelling message, or his or her sincerity. You can work on what people say but you can't be something other than yourself. Do we vote for people for what they say they believe in or do we vote for them because you believe what they say?

In everyday life there is a similar set of questions. Do I believe in the words you speak or do I find you believable?

In everyday life there is a similar set of questions. Do I believe in the words you speak or do I find you believable? If you are like me, the belief in the person being authentic trumps what he or she says. Here is the tough part — one can't mimic authenticity.

So today, the messenger is becoming the message. We judge the content of the message, in part, by the story we have about the messenger. If we perceive the messenger as honest, sincere, intelligent and like us, then we are more inclined to have a favorable reaction to the message. Conversely, if we hold a negative story about the messenger, it doesn't matter what he or she says. We are inclined to disagree or dismiss it (sometimes before it is articulated).

Your message and the intent of your message may be noble and "on point," but the story the listener has about you will influence what he or she hears and how that person interprets your meaning. So, it is neither the message nor the messenger. Rather, it is the story we have about the messenger that becomes part of the message. Do you know what stories others carry about you?

COHASSET SEPAC

Transition Workshop is Tuesday, March 4

The Cohasset Special Education Parent Advisory Council (SEPAC) is pleased to host "Transition Planning, Middle School to Adulthood" presented by Tracey Morgan with the Federation of Children with Special Needs. The presentation will be held on Tuesday, March 4th at 7 p.m. in the Community Room of the Paul Pratt Library.

An individualized transition plan of curriculum and supports throughout school leads to better post high school outcomes such as college education, training, and/or employment for students with disabilities. This workshop addresses the effective use of the IEP and the Massachusetts Transition Planning Form for students who are ages 14 - 22. It will teach families how work with the school district to formulate a strong transition plan under Massachusetts State Law. Ms. Morgan will discuss a student's transitional arc starting in middle school through adulthood. This will include age of majority, self-determination and self-advocacy, life-skill development and preparing students to pursue an independent adult life.

"This is an essential workshop for families to gain knowledge about transition planning for students who are in middle and high school. As students get involved in their IEP process, families need to know the process of transition planning," states Diane Herth, Co-Chair Cohasset SEPAC.

Tracey Morgan, founder of A Bright IDEA Advocate, has 25 years of experience in education, and training in presentation, negotiation and conflict resolution. She has experience with behavior assessment/modification, out-of-district and residential placements. She has also completed FCSN & Orton-Gillingham training.

The presentation is free and open to all. Light refreshments will be served. For more information on Cohasset SEPAC and other South Shore presentations, visit: CohassetSEPAC.org.

Chairman Russ Bonetti said that the board plans to discuss potential projects involving the Little League, Deer Hill playground basketball court, and the Captain John Smith memorial pavilion.

Bonetti said that while these projects could be discussed on March 3, the board is "not going to make any decisions until the following meeting," which will likely take place two weeks later. Any projects pitched must also undergo review by the Board of Selectmen and Advisory Committee.

Look for more on this in an upcoming edition of the Mariner.

THE HOUSE AND SENATE. This week, Beacon Hill Roll Call records local senators' votes on four roll calls from recent legislative sessions. Last week was February vacation week for all public schools in the state. Keeping with tradition, each branch holds only brief, informal sessions during school vacation weeks.

$20 MILLION FOR MORE LOCAL AID (S 2010)

Senate 6-31, rejected an amendment that would provide cities and towns with an additional $20 million in local aid. Amendment supporters said the Lottery recently increased its annual profit from $937 million to $957 million and argued that $20 million should go to all cities and towns. They noted the funds will help communities in many ways including paying for unanticipated very high snow and ice removal costs during this harsh winter.

Amendment opponents said the supplemental budget is not the place to address local aid. They noted the issue will be addressed in the upcoming fiscal 2015 state budget.

(A "Yes" vote is for the $20 million. A "No" vote is against it.)

EMPLOYER INPUT ABOUT JOBS (S 2001)

Senate 38-0, approved an amendment requiring the state's Department of Unemployment Assistance to hold at least one public hearing annually to seek the input of Massachusetts employers on the state's unemployment system.

Amendment supporters said it is important for employers to have the opportunity to give feedback on the jobs situation in the state.

(A "Yes" vote is for the amendment.)

UNEMPLOYMENT FOR FISHERMEN (S 2001)

Senate 38-0, approved an amendment providing full unemployment benefits for any fishermen who are laid off as a result of their employer's vessels being unable to fish because of federal fisheries management restrictions.

Amendment supporters said these hardworking fishermen often get the runaround on collecting unemployment. They argued that if the federal government forces you out of work, you should be deemed unemployed.

(A "Yes" vote is for the amendment.)

SPECIAL COMMISSION TO STUDY UNEMPLOYMENT (S 2001)

Senate 38-0, approved an amendment creating a 15-member special commission to study the impact of unemployment on the unemployed over 40 years of age and on the long-term unemployed.

Amendment supporters said older unemployed people face many difficulties in their search and are often told they are too old or too expensive. They argued it is long past time to look into this problem.

ALSO UPON BEACON HILL

GOOD SAMARITAN LAW (S 1993) - The House and Senate approved and sent to Gov. Deval Patrick a bill that would apply the current "Good Samaritan" law to off-duty police officers, firefighters and EMTs, exempting them from liability when providing emergency care. The current "Good Samaritan" law protects civilians but not these trained professionals.

Supporters said these firefighters and EMTs should not be held liable if anything goes wrong as a result of their efforts to provide emergency care. They cited incidents in which aid was given by these professionals while off-duty and they ended up being sued.

FEMALE INMATES (S 1171) - The Committee on Public Safety has given a favorable report to a bill that would prohibit the shackling of a female prisoner during pregnancy, labor and delivery except to prevent her from escaping or seriously injuring herself or others. It would also establish minimum standards for the treatment and medical care of pregnant prisoners to promote safe and healthy pregnancy outcomes, including adequate nutrition and prenatal care.

REQUIRE HEALTH INSURANCE TO OFFER THESE BENEFITS - The Committee on Financial Services will hold a hearing on March 5 at 1 p.m. in Room A-1 at the Statehouse on several bills. The proposals include requiring health insurance companies to include coverage for mastectomy and a minimum of 48 hours in-patient care following the procedure (H 931); nicotine-based and non-nicotine-based smoking cessation products (H 945); prescription eye drops (H 903); annual physicals (H 968); eating disorders (H 937); telemedicine, the practice of physicians using telecommunication and information technologies to provide health care remotely (S 467); and scalp hair prosthesis (S 430). This artificial substitute for scalp hair would be provided for certain types of hair loss that are not part of the natural aging process including alopecia or permanent loss of scalp hair due to an injury.

DRIVER'S LICENSE FOR ILLEGAL IMMIGRANTS (H 3285) - The Transportation Committee's March 5 hearing at 1 p.m. in Room B-2 of the Statehouse includes the controversial proposal that would allow the Registry of Motor Vehicles to issue driver's licenses to immigrants who meet other criteria but do not have a social security number. The legislation would establish a special driver's license for those who are unable to provide a social security number if they take driver's education, pass a driving test and carry insurance. The hearing was originally scheduled for February 5 but was postponed.

Supporters say these immigrants are currently driving illegally without any training or insurance because they are not allowed to get a license. They argue this bill would ensure that these immigrants have driving skills that would make the roads safer and insurance that would cover them in accidents.

Opponents say illegal immigrants are illegal and should not be allowed to get a driver's license. They note that some states have repealed similar laws because they were beginning to become a haven for illegals to obtain a license.

ELECTRIC CARS, INSPECTION STICKERS AND BUS DRIVERS - The Transportation Committee's March 5 hearing agenda also includes legislation that would allow electric vehicles to use high occupancy lanes (H 3038); require gas stations and other inspection stations to fail and reject any car that has tires or a spare that is more than six years old (H 3016); and require that an applicant pass a written English proficiency test in order to qualify to be a school bus driver (H 3470).

OPEB UPDATE

Looking at health insurance

Senior says savings are possible

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

Cohasset's new town manager is hoping to save the town money on employee health care costs.

Chris Senior, who started working in Cohasset in January, has been working with the town's OPEB (other post employment benefits) committee to strategize ways to tackle the town's outstanding liability to cover the cost of health insurance and benefits for retired town employees.

Cohasset is on the hook for nearly $37 million to fund this liability, and currently has $568,175 saved in a reserve trust. Senior has recommended allocating another $250,000 in the fiscal year 2015 budget, although currently $200,000 is budgeted.

Senior also recommends moving retirees to a different health plan under the town's current provider, MIAA.

"There is a potential to save

Town Manager Chris Senior

substantial money," said Senior.

The town manager suggested having representatives from MIAA attend a future selectmen's meeting to discuss the possibilities. He would also like to bring in retirees "to have the conversation" and "educate them" on the process.

Senior said that he does not yet have the exact numbers on the potential savings, but they could be in the "five digits."

The town manager said that moving to a different plan within MIAA could be a "win-win-win" situation for retirees and the town.

"If we do that piece, show it works and have that victory, we could genuinely save people money all around and give people the same care they had before – it's all good," said Senior.

The town manager said he is also looking into healthcare savings for current, active town employees.

The selectmen previously asked Senior to find out when the town joined the state's Group Insurance Commission (GIC) plan. Senior said that after much "digging through dusty drawers" in the Town Clerk's office, the staff learned that it was in May 1972 by the selectmen's vote.

Senior said that the town has come "full circle."

"We're going from 'that seventies show' to the twenty-first century," said Senior.

Overall, the OPEB committee has been hard at work trying to identify potential cost savings and "chip down" the liability, the town manager explained.

"A lot of good work has already been done on this," said Senior, adding that solutions will not appear overnight. "This is a marathon."

Three more running for reelection

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

The May 10 Town Election may seem far away, but nomination papers have started being pulled since they were first available on Monday, February 10.

So far, there is a three-way race for the Board of Selectmen, which has two terms set to expire, positions currently held by chairman Fred Koed and vice-chair Diane Kennedy. Both have decided to run again, with former Governance Committee Kevin McCarthy vying for one of those spots.

The School Committee, Planning Board, Board of Health, Housing Authority, Library Board of Trustees, Recreation and Sewer Commissions have also drawn applicants.

Pulling papers this week was Paul Ognibene for the School Committee, running for a second term; also running for reelection are Michael Dickey for the Planning Board, Robin Lawrence for the Board of Health, and Town Moderator Daniel Evans.

On the first day nomination papers became available – Feb. 10 – a potential race for the Board of Selectmen emerged.

Incumbent selectmen Fred Koed and Diane Kennedy, who respectively serve as chair and vice-chair, both pulled papers that day. Kennedy is up for her second term, having been elected in 2011, while Koed is running for his sixth term; he has been a selectmen since 1999.

The challenger, who also pulled papers on Feb. 10, is Kevin McCarthy, Fair Oaks Lane, an attorney, currently serves on the Governance Committee.

Also pulling papers the first week were Wayne Sawchuk for the Sewer Commission and Virginia Laugelle Najmi for the Housing Authority. Town Clerk Carol St. Pierre, who started in the town clerk's office in 1997 and was elected assistant clerk in 1999 and clerk in 2011, also pulled papers for her position.

A newcomer on the election scene this year is Stephen Brown, who pulled papers for the Library Board of Trustees.

Virginia Froio announced plans to run for the Recreation Commission, and pulled papers last week, seeking the open five-year seat being vacated by Katy Lydon, who has decided not to run for a second term.

Governance Committee submit bylaw changes

Cohasset's Governance Committee is gearing up for the April 28 Town Meeting, having completed a review of the town bylaws as they relate or conflict with the Town Manager Act, which was amended by the state legislature this year.

The proposed bylaw changes were discussed with Town Counsel during a public meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 4.

The final amendments to the bylaws have been submitted to the Board of Selectmen, requesting the board's approval to include the changes in the Annual Town Meeting warrant. The Governance board prefers to have a vote from the selectmen on the matter.

The Governance Committee also underwent a change in organization recently when Kevin McCarthy resigned as chairman after announcing his candidacy for the Board of Selectmen. The Town Election is Saturday, May 10.

Mary Jo Larson was appointed chair. Other members include secretary Patricia Morse and Merle Brown, Christine Cuning, Ralph Dormitzer and Jack Keniley.

CANDIDATES CORNER

Supporting the public schools

Over the past few weeks, I have heard many parents concerned that our public schools be fully funded and supported so that their children can receive the high quality education for which Cohasset has become well known. It is obvious to me that as our school age population increases we must be diligent and creative in funding the teachers and aides necessary to maintain the class sizes and programs for optimum success of all our students.

High quality education is one of the main reasons I enrolled my own children in the Cohasset school system. It's a legacy and obligation we all owe to all the children of Cohasset – now and in the future.

As a Selectman, I will work very hard to assure that there is proper funding for our schools and for all other town departments in accordance with the fiscal policies passed by Town Meeting.

GIRLS HOCKEY

Historic victory

Skipping Indians win first playoff game in team history

The Cohasset Mariner

The No. 10 seeded Cohasset/Hanover girls hockey (11-3-4) team added to an already outstanding season with a 5-3 victory over No. 23 King Phillip (10-10-1) in a preliminary round game of the MIAA Div. 2 Sectional Tournament.

The win was the first playoff victory since the team joined the varsity ranks.

Championship caliber

Cohasset junior Matt Froio won the Div. 3 State Championship over the weekend and will wrestle at this weekend's All-State Meet. COURTESY PHOTO

Froio becomes 12th Skipper State Champ in wrestling

The Cohasset Mariner

Cohasset junior Matt Froio highlighted a fantastic season with a State Championship to his name.

Over the weekend, Froio lived up to his No.1 seed, winning the Div. 3 State Championship in the 170 division at the Div. 3 State Championship meet at Foxboro, Saturday.

For others, the Div. 3 States were the end of an era.

Senior captains Harry Helbock and Chandler Skolnick finished their careers wrestling at States, with both winning a match and finishing in the top 12 at the states.

Teammates, juniors Hayes Keniley, sophomores Sean Mavilia, Cole Sullivan and Nick Hall all won one match and lost two as they ended in the round of 12 as well.

"All four boys had excellent seasons and gained valuable state experience last weekend," said coach Torin Sweeney.

Another big honor was bestowed on Cohasset when they were awarded the MIAA Division 3 Team Sportsmanship Award.

Froio went into the tournament as the No. 1 seed and did not disappoint.

He won four matches, two on Friday and two on Saturday.

The first was a victory over a Wakefield wrestler how kept the match close until the third period when Matt pulled away for a comfortable win. In the quarterfinals the Mounument Mt. wrestlers stalled for the entire match in order to keep it close for one big move. Matt strategically wrestle to a 8-0 win. Saturday in the semifinals Matt's opponent was from Tyngsboro and a very accomplished wrestler.

Froio quickly took him down and scored two back points before a number of scrambles saw both wrestlers on their backs. Late in the second period Matt pinned the Tyngsboro boy with two seconds left on the clock.

In the finals Froio drew the Quabbin wrestler that had placed seventh in the Division 2 state tournament last season at the same 170 lbs weight.

Quabbin High School dropped down two Division 3 this year after the restructuring of the divisions.

Froio dominated the match from start to finish with a variety of take-downs and pinning combos ending the match with a 13-3 score.

FroioMatt became Cohasset's 12th State Champion.

Matt will wrestle in the All-States (all 3 divisions) this weekend as he is the No. 2 seed in the tournament. Matt's record now stands at 37-1 in his weight class. The No. 1 seed Anthony Drover from North Andover is 44-0

BOYS BASKETBALL

Regular season comes to close

Skippers reflect on regular slate, prepare for playoffs

By Christian Cunnille

Special to the Cohasset Mariner

The Cohasset Boys Varsity Basketball Team has made some huge achievements this season. The team ended their very exciting regular season with a remarkable 19-1 record and a No. 2 seed in the MIAA Div. 4 South Sectional Tournament that began Thursday night at home against No. 7 seeded West Bridgewater (14-6) Results were unavailable at press time

The Skippers rounded off their success on Senior Night, last Thursday, with a win against Southeastern Regional 51-35.

Seniors Chris Haggerty, Joe Buckley, Rocco Laugelle, and Henry Brown were recognized prior to the game.

During the Skippers last regular season showdown, Laugelle lead the team with 10 points and Haggerty and Brown both added 8, respectively. Joe Buckley (6 rebounds) and Junior Jack Chamberlain (8 rebounds) both preformed tremendously all over the boards as well.

As the players, especially seniors, were sad to see the season go and they are definitely physically and mentally ready for the fast, high-paced MIAA tournament.

"Our regular season has gone by way too fast," Cohasset head coach Bo Ruggiero said. "We all look forward to having the post season last as long as it can, it's a second new season."

Cohasset's starting point guard Rocco Laugelle stated has enjoyed the season, but wasn't close to being finished.

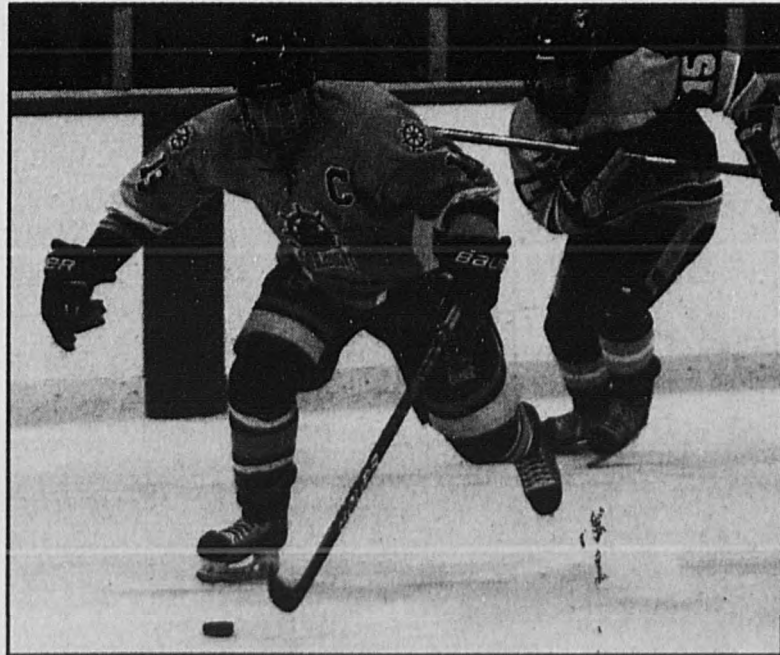

"We worked hard and had fun. But we haven't left our mark yet," he said before the playoffs began, while hoping to continue his last basketball season at Cohasset High.

Another amazing accomplishment

TOURNEY TIME

Icemen to face Dartmouth

Cohasset's Mickey Barry has been an integral part of Cohasset's run to the MIAA Div. 3 South Sectional Tournament. The Skippers finished the regular season with an outstanding 14-6 record to earn a No. 4 seed in the tourney. Cohasset will play No. 20 Dartmouth (10-10-1) today at 6:40 at the Rockland Ice Rink. In the win, King Phillip jumped out ahead in the first period with two quick goals. Down 2-0, the Cohasset/Hanover girls came back to score one before the end of the first period with sophomore forward Sam Taylor scoring a goal that ignited the team.

Early in the second period freshman Alex Martini popped one in to even the score at 2-2.

The go ahead goal was scored by junior Valerie Farren later in the second period, but King Phillip followed up with one of their own to tie up the score again at 3-3.

All three King Phillip goals were scored by the same player, and the Cohasset/Hanover girls defense did an outstanding job holding KP to the three goals. The defense has been phenomenal all season.

In the third period, freshman defenseman Cassidy Bodie carried the puck in from the blue line and scored to bring the Skipping Indians back up by one goal.

Farren iced the game with her second goal late in the third period and the final score was 5-3 with Cohasset Hanover coming out on top.

Throughout the game, sophomore goalie Shea Kearney had a stellar performance to keep the girls alive in the tournament hunt.

The girls advance to the D2 first round game against No. 26 (9-8-4) Milton this weekend.

Milton upset No. 7 Archbishop Williams (13-5-4) 4-3 in their opener.

Cohasset/Hanover's Shea Kearney has been huge in net all season, and nothing changed in the team's first-ever varsity playoff victory, Wednesday.

18 wrestlers from all 3 divisions will wrestle for the championship, which will leave one wrestler as the All-States Champion of divisions 1, 2 and 3. The top 6 place winners in each weight class will move on to the New England Tournament on March 7 and 8.

The week before, Cohasset had a tremendous showing at the Div. 3 South Sectional Tournament at home.

The Skippers finished third in the 16-team field, behind Norton and Somerset.

Cohasset edged long time foe Foxboro by 1.5 points for third place. Sandwich finished fifth to round out the top five.

Froio defeated the top ranked wrestler in Div. 3, Jake Duffy from Foxboro. Froio scored the first takedown and controlled the pace off the 5-3 match.

Sophomores (147 lbs) Nick Hall and (140 lbs) Sean Mavilia each wrestled to second place both posting exciting semi-finals wins. Mavilia came back from a five-point deficit and Hall was in a spirited back in fourth brawl.

Sophomore classmate (134 lbs) Cole Sullivan took third place, outdoing his No. 6 seed going into the tournament. Sullivan had four pins going 5-1 on the day.

In his final match he beat a Norton wrestler with a five-point move with 30 seconds left winning 5-1.

Three Skipper wrestlers took fourth place.

Seniors (126 lbs) Chandler Skolnick, and (126 lbs) Harry Helbock.

Both wrestled well and placed one notch above their seed.

Junior Hayes Keniley also took fourth and had a solid tournament.

All seven wrestlers were at the double elimination Div. 3 State Tournament.

Seniors (195 lbs) Steven Maher and (285 lbs) Kelsey Naisant were alternates for Cohasset. Both wrestlers won three big matches and scored valuable points for Cohasset in the Sectional.

Rounding out the points were Drew Skolnick and Xander

Schubert. Both picked up a win and scored a point each to push Cohasset over Foxboro by that slim 1.5 margin.

Eighth grader (106 lbs) Mike Nolan was unable to win a match in a very competitive 106 weight class. However, Nolan had 10 wins this season and gained valuable experience.

First year wrestler junior (220 lbs) Nick Tetreault won eight matches down the stretch for Cohasset and will anchor the upper weights for Cohasset next year.

Cohasset's 18-7-1 league championship season was remarkable given all the young wrestlers and the loss of Senior leader Joe Sestito and solid junior Kyle McKnight. Back to back 18 wins seasons will set the bar high for next year's squad.

the team took on this year was securing the South Shore League title.

"Winning the South Shore league Championship for the second time in four years is fantastic and having a 17 game undefeated winning streak is a wow factor," Coach Ruggiero said. "I did not consider initially that this group would achieve that level of success. I thought we could be a good team but they have shown everyone they are a very good team."

As for the overall season both Bo Ruggiero and Senior Captain Joe Buckley acclaim the season's success to a wide array of talent, without an all-star.

"We've had a great season so far because we are a true team with no one star but a lot of different guys who can step in and be the hero on any given night," said Buckley.

Coach Ruggiero has truly enjoyed this squad.

"This season ranks up there as one of the very best I have been a part of," he said. "Terrific group of kids that have all bought into the team system."

Skipper senior Chris Haggerty feels teamwork has been a big factor.

"I think the two keys this year for our success have been depth and chemistry," Haggerty said.

Fourth Wall coming to First Parish!

The Third Sunday Series at First Parish Cohasset presents The Fourth Wall Ensemble. This talented group of performers pushes new boundaries, as the musicians are also dancers and actors. Come find out what happens when talent and humor collide. This concert will be part of the Third Sunday Series at First Parish Cohasset at 3 p.m. on Sunday, March 16.

This concert will be held in the Parish House, not in the meetinghouse, to allow room for the dancers to stretch their legs. The First Parish Cohasset Parish House is located across the street from the meetinghouse on the Common at 23 North Main St. Admission is $15 for adults and $12 for seniors and children. Children under 12 are free. This is a concert that will be fun for all ages, and we strongly encourage you to bring the whole family!

The program involves three performers and 20 pieces in 60 minutes.

Working at break-neck speed, the multi-talented members of The Fourth Wall combine music, theatre, and dance in this sprint-triathlon variety show. The audience determines the show order and even helps create some pieces on the spot.

Every performance of "Fruit Flies" is different - from show order to parameters to repertoire. We're always adding new pieces, changing old pieces, and finding new ways to make friends and fans join in. Inspired by Chicago's Neo-Futurists' "Too Much Light Makes the Baby Go Blind" (30 plays in 60 minutes), performers strive to turn conventional classical music performances on their ear and leave our audiences with a good feeling in their belly.

This talented group of performers pushes new boundaries, as the musicians are also dancers and actors. COURTESY PHOTO

Time flies like an arrow... Fruit Flies Like A Banana! Described as "ridiculously talented," The Fourth Wall explores a new hybrid of the performing arts in which musicians are also dancers and actors. Stretching the boundaries of instrumental performance, The Fourth Wall commissions new interdisciplinary works and reinterprets established repertoire to make music that leaps from the stage.

Join flutist Hilary Abigana, bass trombonist C. Neil Parsons, and percussionist Greg Jukes for an eclectic program of hybrid artistry!

For more information about the performers, and to see pictures of the ensemble in action, visit www.thefourthwallensemble.com. For more information about the concert, or about a subscription to the concert series, contact Allegra Martin at 617-872-0461. Tickets will only be sold at the door, not in advance.

OBITUARIES

Obituaries appearing in this section are paid for and written by families, often through the services of a funeral director.

Dr. Vaughan R. Pratt

COHASSET - Dr. Vaughan R. Pratt, Asian Coral Reef Champion, 60, a wildlife veterinarian who pioneered the global effort to preserve the coral reefs of Southeast Asia, passed away January 30th at Aklan Baptist Hospital, Aklan Province, the Republic of the Philippines. He suffered acute myocardial infarction at the Blue Mango Inn, a resort hotel he owned and operated on Boracay Island. At his side was his wife of 37 years, Daliles "Dolly" Pratt.

Mr. Pratt, who earned a degree in veterinary medicine at Araneta University in Manila in 1980, founded and led for twenty years the International MarineLife Alliance (IMA). The nonprofit environmental group was the leading organization dedicated to the preservation of coral reef resources throughout Southeast Asia. At its height, IMA grew to operate in 8 nations and employ 150 people.

With Pratt in the lead, IMA often challenged governments and fishing interests head on to protect the thousands of square miles of underwater coral resources in the region.

The task of working across multiple countries, with projects funded by a variety of grant sources, would have been a trying time for any experienced global nonprofit manager, yet Pratt was credited by governments and his colleagues alike for his perseverance.

"Throughout all of the organizational challenges, and the constant need to deal with multiple groups in each country, Vaughan kept his cool," remembers Dr. Peter Rubec, a Co-Founder of IMA. "He was a friend to all, from island fishermen to senior national officials. His accomplishments are living on today across the Pacific," said Rubec, now a Research Scientist with the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission.

For the last decade, Dr. Pratt and his wife Dolly operated the Blue Mango at the Southeast Asian destination resort island of Boracay. Vaughan would often be seen on the beach at sunset conversing with guests from all over the world, many of whom would return year after year.

In 1983, Dr. Pratt also founded the New England Wildlife Center, Inc. in Hingham, Massachusetts. The Center, now headquartered in Weymouth, is a thriving regional educational and veterinary facility dedicated to caring for and teaching about wildlife throughout the Northeast.

Pratt was born and raised in Cohasset, Massachusetts, to where he would frequently return with his family for periods short and long following his enrollment at Araneta in the 1970's. As the President of his beloved Cohasset High School Class of 1972, he most recently presided over the 40th reunion of a class known locally for its continued camaraderie across the decades. Even while 10,000 miles away in Asia, Vaughan was seen as the connector that kept his classmates in touch with their hometown on the South Shore and their memories of growing up.

"Talking to Vaughan made you realize that the 40 plus years since high school didn't change anything too much, except the realization of how precious those days were," said Class Vice President John Florescu.

For family, colleagues, and friends in Asia, a memorial service was held on February 6th celebrating the life of Dr. Pratt at St. Peter's Memorial Chapel in Quezon City, Metro Manila.

Vaughan's life and crusading human spirit will be remembered at a memorial service to be held Saturday, March 8, 2014 at 11:00 AM, at the Second Congregational Church, 43 Highland Avenue, on Cohasset Common, Cohasset, MA 02025. Immediately following the service, the family has invited friends, family and colleagues to a reception in the Church's Bates Hall.

A private interment will be held at Cohasset's Woodside Cemetery, Gold Star Mother's section.

In addition to his wife, Dolly, Dr. Pratt is survived by his sons, Dustin and his wife Kaye of North Hollywood, California, Justin of North Hollywood, and Adrian of Manila and Boracay, and by grandson Gavin. His parents, Edwin and Eileen Pratt, still reside in Cohasset, as does his older brother Glenn with his wife, Linda. Vaughan's sister, Sherilyn Craig, lives in Gaithersburg, Maryland. Dr. Pratt is also survived by numerous first cousins, nieces and nephews spread across the United States, and an equal number of Dolly's cousins in the Philippines and in the United States.

In lieu of flowers, the family has requested that donations in Vaughan's memory be made to the New England Wildlife Center, 500 Columbian Street, South Weymouth, MA 02190.

Horoscope

SALOME'S STARS FOR RELEASE WEEK OF MARCH 10, 2014

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Take time from your busy schedule to check out what's going on around you. You might find that someone has been secretly trying to pull the wool over those beautiful Sheep's eyes.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Once again, the Bovine's boldness pays off in uncovering the source of a disturbing workplace situation. Your personal life calls for patience, as a certain matter plays itself out.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Forget about going all out to impress someone in your personal life. Just being yourself is all that matters. A workplace decision will need more time. Don't rush into it.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Some supersensitive Crabs might take offense at what they perceive as a slight. But a closer look points to a simple misunderstanding. The weekend holds a welcome surprise.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Sure, you can roar your head off over someone's failure to keep a promise. But the wiser course would be to ask why it happened. Be prepared for an answer that might well surprise you.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A developing relationship needs time to find its direction. So please be patient and resist pushing things along. A recently cooled-down workplace situation could heat up again.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Congratulations. Your well-thought-out proposal seems to be working. Someone who hasn't agreed with you on most things in the past could turn out to be one of your major supporters.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Things seem to be going well. However, you can still expect criticism — some of it pretty heavy. But as long as you can back up your position, you'll be able to rise above it.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Getting together with people who care for you is a great way to get that ego boost you might feel you need at this time. Things start to look brighter by week's end.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You should be able to continue with your plans once you get past those temporary delays. Surprise, surprise. An offer to help comes from a most unlikely source.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Prioritizing your tasks is important this week because of all those demands you have to deal with. The pressure eases in time for you to enjoy the weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Save your energy and stay focused on what has to be done, despite all those distractions you're likely to face. You should see some evidence of real progress by week's end.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are a generous, giving person who is always ready, willing and more than able to help others in need.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
